SMELTING WORKS.

The Prospect Good for an Establishment Here.

PLAN OF THE PRESTON COMPANY.

Professor Anthony on the Mineral Resources of This Section—Interesting Facts.

There is a good deal of talk among capitalists and business men of this city in favor of taking vigorous action to help bring about the location of smelting works here. A letter recently received by L. R. Harrison, an experienced mining man of Los Angeles, from F. E. Miller, of Chicago, who is the president of the Preston Reduction Company, shows very plainly that the road is open for a development in this direction.

The Preston Reduction Company owns the Preston system for the working of ores by heat from crude petroleum, which has the advantage of being able to handle rebellious ores which cannot be worked by any other method. A test smelter was erected about eighteen months ago by this compano at Elgin, Ill., and ores of the most rebellious type were experimented upon with remarkable success. The company then set about the erection of their first permanent works at Bowlder, Colorado. In his letter to Mr. Harrison, Mr. Miller says that there is some difficulty about the title of the land on which the plant was to be located, and if it terminates unfavorably to the company they will abandon the effort to locate their first smelter there and will choose Los Angeles instead.

It will be remembered that Mr. Miller, the president of the company, and Mr. Preston, the inventor of the system, visited Los Angeles about two months ago. They looked into the situation pretty thoroughly and held several conferences with the railroad people. The Santa Fe agreed to carry ores assaying less than $50 to the ton at a rate between $3 and $4. A careful estimate was made of the amount of ore available which was now being shipped to San Francisco, Denver and Omaha, including some which is sent to Swansea in Wales, for the reason that it cannot be handled by any smelting establishment in this country. It was found that there was plenty of material on which to work, and as there was no lack of petroleum the two prospectors were well satisfied with the outlook.

It is the purpose of the company to establish several smelters in which the Preston system will be used, and there is no doubt whatever that Los Angeles is down on their list as one of the places where one of the establishments shall be located. The only question is, as to what can be done to induce them to begin on the work immediately. The letter from Mr. Miller shows that they are favorably disposed, and it is the view of a number of capitalists and business men of the section that some action might be taken here which might bring about good results.

The matter was brought up at the last meeting of the Chamber of Commerce by John F. Humphries, who offered to make a present of five acres of land in Boyle Heights to any company that would locate a smelter anywhere in the city. He suggested that gifts of land in various parts of the city and county aggregating a value of a number of thousands of dollars might be offered to any company that would locate in the city. The subject was turned over to the committees on manufactures and mines and mining, who will make immediate investigation. Several members of the chamber expressed the opinion that a large bonus of land and money could be raised for any responsible company which would agree to build and operate a smelter.

In connection with the subject of the ores of this vicinity, the following letter, contributed to the HERALD by Prof. C. E. Anthony, will give some idea of the neglected mineral resources of the section:

EDITORS HERALD—It is a settled fact, admitted by all who have taken the trouble to investigate, that Southern California is rich in the ores of the precious metals, but very few are aware of the great variety of the industrial minerals that are abundant, many of which are of daily use to us all, and nearly all of which lie neglected, while we import from the Eastern States and Europe the products which we should ourselves manufacture, not only for our own use, but to furnish the rest of the world. The following list will astonish many people; yet not one of the minerals mentioned but can be produced cheaply and in any quantity the market may demand. The writer has samples of them all, and is assured of their abundance.

Beginning with clay, in variety we can challenge the world.

Clay for brick, clay for fire-brick, clay for sewer pipe, for terra cotta, for common pottery, for queensware, and clay (kaolin) for china or porcelain of the purest and finest kind.

For limestones, we have those suitable for quicklime; hydraulic limestone for the making of cements like the Rosendale and Louisville, and also those capable of making the Portland hydraulic cement, such as we import from Europe by the hundred thousand barrels annually. In marbles, which is also a limestone, Southern California has, for quality and variety, marbles unequaled in the world. This is a broad statement, but capable of proof.

Ochres for mineral paints: These are obtainable in many shades and colors, and of a good quality, free from grit. They are in demand everywhere.

Asbestos and talc: These minerals are related and are generally neighbors. They are used for paints and for packing steam pipes, also to make a body for wall and other heavy paper.

Sand for glass-making: All the glass used in California is brought from Pittsburgh and elsewhere, while we have beds and thick strata of the purest of glass sand, entirely free from iron or other deleterious substances. In this connection it is proper to mention the carbonate of soda necessary to accompany the sand for glass-making. This latter mineral is inexhaustible.

Pumice-stone and infusorial earth: The latter has many uses; it is the best filtering substance known; it is the sapolio or electro silicon, which is used in everybody's kitchen; it is also used in glass-making, particularly for soluble glass.

Silicate of soda, manganese oxide, occurs in several places. It is used in making oxygen gas, in coloring glass and pottery, and in steel making, and brings a good price in any market.

Gypsum or lime sulphate: This is also found in limited quantities in many places. Some of it is of remarkable fineness. It is wanted everywhere for plaster of Paris and as a fertilizer. It also restores the alkali lands by neutralizing the soda.

Byrita sulphate, or heavy spar: This mineral is found in several places, usually as the gangue in rich silver ores (sulphides). In some cases, however, it is pure, and is used to adulterate lead paints.

Besides these minerals mentioned we have borax, sulphur, the ores of zinc, lead, silver, tin, gold, and the finest iron ores in the world—at least the equal of the Swedish ores. And now, that it is demonstrated that these ores can be reduced direct into steel by the use of crude oil for fuel, there is no reason in freighting iron and steel across a continent to unload it by the side of vast bodies of rich iron ore.

Daily inquiries are made for some one or more of the above-mentioned substances. Now why not develop these industries and set some of our miners to work that need it, and make active some of the money now idle in the banks?

A SINGULAR PERFORMANCE.

Company C of the Tenth Regiment Mustered Out.

A short time ago when Adjutant-General R. H. Orton, of the National Guard, was in this city making a general inspection, he remarked to several people that he thought affairs were in rather a bad shape and that he was decidedly in favor of mustering out all of the existing companies and taking a fresh start. The cause of the difficulties, as is well known, was the charge of embezzlement of funds against Colonel W. H. H. Russell, which had never been thoroughly investigated, and out of which numerous troubles had grown. The Adjutant-General thought that by mustering out the entire regiment these charges and the quarrels among the officers would all be disposed of and the affairs of the guard in this vicinity take a new and improved shape.

The officers of the brigade expressed themselves vigorously against this course, and it was abandoned. A compromise was adopted, however, in the shape of the mustering out of Company C, formerly the Eagle Corps, whose financial affairs succeeded in entangling up Col. Russell so effectually. The order announcing this plan was issued last Tuesday from the Adjutant-General's office in Sacramento, and will go into effect on March 1st. As this reduces the regiment to a battalion of five companies, which will not be entitled to an officer higher in rank than a Lieutenant-Colonel, it disposes of Col. Russell as well as the company. The order sets forth this fact, and also says that if he chooses to make application before the 1st of March, Col. Russell can be placed on the retired list. The order concluded with the statement that General Johnson will be given authority to enroll another company immediately and that the service of such members of Company C as enlist within thirty days will be made continuous. In others words the boys of Company C will be discharged and hired over again—a legal fiction planned for the purpose of getting rid of Colonel Russell.

The preliminary investigation of the Russell case is said to have cost over $300, and the prospect is that the court martial, which was to have taken place this week, would have cost several times that sum. However the Adjutant-General may be disposed toward Colonel Russell, it cannot be doubted that the financial element of the matter had considerable to do with his action.

A number of the boys in the company yesterday expressed themselves very indignantly over the disbanding of the organization. "We are sacrificed," they said, "to save Col. Russell from a court-martial." Most of them intend to re-enlist.

It is said by some of the military authorities in this city that if Col. Russell makes application to go on the retired list, he will be compelled to submit to the court-martial. Others deny this, and say that the law on this subject is not defined.

BASEBALL.

The Home Team Again Comes Out Ahead.

In spite of the cold wind and unpromising condition of the weather there was a very fair attendance at the Athletic park yesterday afternoon, fully 500 spectators being present to witness the second ball game between the picked nine of the San Bernardino and Riverside clubs and the Los Angeles nine. The game was much more interesting than that of Saturday afternoon, as the picked nine made four tallies in their third innings, and the home team failed to score until their seventh. The Angeleños, however, turned the tables upon their opponents in short order, tallying three times in their eighth and four times in their ninth innings; and, as the visitors failed to make any addition to their score, the game resulted in a victory for the local boys by 8 to 4. Young was in the box for the home team, and pitched a fairly strong game, only four hits being made off his delivery. Darby twirled the sphere for the visitors very effectively for the first part of the game, but in the last three innings the Angeleños knocked him about in every direction. For the victors, Fogarty, Lohman, Goldie, Swan and Lucas carried off the honors with the bat, while Pier, Brown, Graves, O'Toole and Meneffee divided the laurels for the defeated nine.

Amusements.

The Elks' benefit, tendered the lodge of this city by the Grismer-Davies company, which took place at the Los Angeles last night, was a great success from every point of view. The house was filled to the doors everywhere. The play, Mr. Grismer's own dramatic production, Forgiven, was excellently produced. After this was a little olio, as published in the HERALD yesterday, all of which was most excellent of the several kinds. The benefit to the Elks' lodge is a substantial one indeed.

DAYS OF FORTY-NINE.

Crossing the Continent to Dig California Gold.

CAMPING ON THE GREAT DIVIDE.

Mountain Sheep, Indians, Long Emigrant Trains, Fording Rivers and Miring in Swamps.

The journal of J. M. Hixson, kept while crossing the continent in '49, in this installment reaches the top of the Rocky mountains and the banks of the Green river:

Monday, June 11th, we lay in camp all day, waiting our turn to cross the river. It was very tedious crossing with the large ox teams. There was a young man by the name of James Brown, from Howard county, Missouri, drowned in crossing.

On Tuesday, June 12th, we crossed the river at 10 o'clock, and drove two miles up the river and stopped for noon. We traveled then twenty miles, and stopped for the night at Mineral Springs.

We made Camp 39 on Wednesday, June 13th, then took an early start, traveled sixteen miles, and nooned at Willow Springs. We crossed three streams of running water and passed Prospect Hill. We had to cross some swampy ground; got two teams mired down; dug them out; had some good road; made good time; came to Sweetwater, one mile below Independence Rock, where we camped, having traveled thirty-eight miles. Camp 40 was pitched on Thursday, June 14th, after passing Independence Rock. This is one of nature's wonders. It is two miles in circumference and seventy-five feet high, disconnected from all other similar formations, lying in a level plain. A half mile above we crossed the Sweetwater, a deep stream of ice-cold water coming from the snows of the Rocky mountains. Six miles from the crossing of the Sweetwater is Devil's Gate. The road passes between two high cliffs, and but a short distance to the right the river rushes through a cleft in the rock, the sides of which are 400 feet high, with perpendicular sides. Why this should be called the Devil's Gate I am at a loss to know, for had this pass not been made I see no way the country beyond could have been reached. It may be the Old Boy expects to get those who pass this place. It is certainly a most romantic place. It has a smooth, level wagon road a few yards wide, with walls of perpendicular sides of smooth rocks towering to the clouds on either side, and with the roaring of a river as its waters dashed over the rocks through a gorge still more wild a few rods away. We were inside or beyond the Devil's Gate. To our right was the Sweetwater. From its northern bank rises the rockiest, steepest and highest peaks of the Rocky mountains. We had no means of ascertaining their height, but it takes two looks to get to the top of some of the peaks. To our left for a few hundred yards was bottom land, covered with a short grass called buffalo grass. Then commences a gradual rise. First, greasewood and stunted sagebrush; further on the sagebrush becomes almost trees in size, many being four to six inches through and five to seven feet high. The rise continues until far away to the south the rugged mountain sides appear, and still beyond the snow-capped peaks. After traveling some six and a half miles up the river, we turned to the left across rolling lands, cut by several small streams rushing to the right, where their waters enter the Sweetwater. After traveling over considerable heavy sand, we found a camping place on reaching the river, having traveled twenty-five miles.

Camp 41 was made on Friday, June 15th. Our experience the night before was anything but pleasant. I arrived at the river before dark, and finding a great crowd of campers and but little chance for grass on the side of the river we were traveling on, I saw there was a bottom on the opposite side where the grass was good, there being no stock on that side of the river. On examination, I saw the river run near a point of the rocks. Then for a half mile it flowed along the bottom, and came to the perpendicular bluff below, making a corral of several hundred acres of most luxuriant feed, bounded on one side by the river and on the other side by a perpendicular wall of rock that the mules could not cross. It was quite dark when the wagons came up, so I explained the situation, that the only show for feed was to cross over the stream, which was about fifty feet wide and deep enough to swim the smallest of the mules. The Tennessee boys had a large black horse, and knowing the mules would follow him the boys soon had them unharnessed, and by forcing the horse across the mules all followed Having gathered some drift-wood before the wagons arrived, I soon had a good fire and supper in a short time. The guards took their stations, one above the camp and the other below on the river. Being in the midst of the Crow Indians' territory and seeing none of them along the road, but seeing their signal fires at night, we knew it was necessary to keep a close look-out of nights. Having a hard day's travel all but the two on guard were soon wrapped up in their blankets sleeping soundly. It was but a short time, however, until the guard above on the river came rushing into camp with the news that the mules were crossing the river on to the plains and sagebrush lands to the south. It took less time to gather guns and start for the place designated than it does to write about it; all feeling satisfied there must be Indians after them or they would never have crossed the river.

After reconnoitering for some time and making careful examination for hoof tracks, we came to the conclusion there must be some mistake, so we returned to our blankets, after admonishing the guard that we wanted no more false alarms. While we approved of his course in calling us out, it was anything but pleasant to leave one's warm bed on a cold night unless there were Indians to shoot at.

We had not been in bed an hour, just long enough to get comfortably warm and in a deep sleep, until the same guard came rushing into camp saying the mules were crossing the mountain. Here was a dilemma. No chance to get there except to cross the ice-cold stream. As Major Lane and myself were first ready, we dashed into the river. We found it just up to our arm-pits. (The freezing of the streams that flow from the snow banks as night comes on causes the river to fall, and it was not as deep at that time, 11 o'clock, as when the mules crossed over.) By holding our guns and pistols over our heads, we kept them dry. I knew it would be impossible for the mules to cross the mountains, that the only thing they could do might be to cross a point at the upper end of the corral, where the rock projecting to the river did not look to be over fifteen or twenty feet high, and if forced over, that they would get into a bottom above on the same side of the river. We cautiously approached that point, and after listening and hearing no sounds from beyond we clambered over this point, which we did with difficulty, feeling satisfied no mule would voluntarily cross here, and doubting their ability to do so if pursued by Indians. But to make sure we examined carefully for tracks. Finding none we retraced our steps, and concluded we would seek those mules that had been the cause of so much anxiety. After floundering around among the yellow sand and high grass, we came to the herd. Some were feeding around, others were lying down, resting quietly. All appeared quite surprised to see us at this time of night. The next thing was to take another cold bath, crossing the river. When we got back the next thing was to account for the deception practiced on our guards. We knew it was no practical joke, and there was no man in camp who would be less likely to raise the camp than he. His courage could never be doubted under any circumstances. He was one of Colonel Donaphan's soldiers who had crossed the plains to join General Taylor in Mexico. It was a matter of too much interest to be treated lightly, so the middle and last guard were doubled by throwing out a picket guard. Finally morning came, the mules were secured all right, and we were soon on the road, among the greatest crowd of teams we had come to yet. All were rushing to see who could get to the summit of the Rocky mountains first. Representatives from all parts of the United States can be seen here. One can locate with reasonable certainty the place the party comes from by the style of whip used to drive the team of oxen. If a stick from five to six feet long with a spike in the end is used, called a gad, that fellow is from New England—most likely from the pineries of Maine. If a short handle, say eighteen to twenty-four inches, with a long lash, such as is used by drovers, you may feel sure you are amongst men from the Middle States. If a long pole or stalk, say ten to fifteen feet, with a thong or lash still longer, is used—the noise of which is equal to a pistol—you may know there are Illinoisans, Missourians, or some other Western States fellows around.

I recollect in crossing through Illinois in 1839, of my father questioning a fellow about the country. He was turning over the sod with a team of five or six yoke of cattle. In reply to my father's question he said: "Well, stranger, I guess this is a pretty good country, leastwise it is good for men and dogs, but it is hell on women and oxen—go on there, Buck; whoa, haw, Darby," and the fellow let off a whirl of that long lash that resounded over the prairie like the crack of a gun. This slashing and cutting to get in the front before reaching the Rocky mountains reminds me of those big teams ploughing up the prairies through the West. I wondered how long it would be before the fine lands we had traveled over would be settled, and in place of the sneaking, thieving, blood-thirsty Indians, a prosperous, happy, intelligent race occupy them.

From our last starting point we traveled eight miles up the bottom, then we had to leave the river, as it ran through a deep gorge. There was much very heavy sand that day. On reaching the Sweetwater we drove a few miles so as to leave the great gang of teams that we knew would go into camp at the first chance of water and some grass. The number of teams passed and now behind us since leaving the States was 7,304 There were possibly half that many still ahead, and from all we could gather as we came on—counting those on the border of Missouri, in Jackson county, and those outfitting about St. Joe, and those coming by the way of Council Bluffs—we were in the front of the emigration. It is safe to say there were 10,000 to 15,000 teams that started out after we did. As yet no one had ever passed us. We camped on the bank of Sweetwater, having traveled twenty miles.

We made Camp 42 on Saturday, June 16, and got an early start so as to get ahead of as many teams as possible. Turning from the river over the rolling lands, which still continue on the south side of the river, in striking contrast to the cliffs and perpendicular rocks hundreds of feet high which came up to the river on the north side, the mountain peaks still beyond rose higher and higher, while there was no high mountain to the south in less than thirty miles. At places there were high hills within a few miles of the river, but no snow-capped mountain near by to the south.

After traveling some six miles we came to the celebrated ice spring, or swamp. It is a level place, some 100 yards across, covered with tufts of grass, on which one can walk. As it is some little distance from the road, we had nothing to dig out the ice except a butcher-knife, that we carried in a scabbard on our belt. That not being very long, we were unable to dig deep enough to get the solid ice. We took out a quantity in the shape of ice-sickles. While it gets very cold here at night, it is hot enough this June day for ice to be quite a treat. The question comes up in my mind, if the devil's kingdom is not east of the Gate instead of west, as we had a number of hot springs before we reached there, which we had no particular use for, and now we found this delightfully refreshing, clear ice, which is so desirable of a hot day. We traveled eighteen miles during the forenoon, and stopped on the Sweetwater for noon. We crossed the river, ascended a high rocky hill to avoid a cañon, where the Sweetwater passes between two steep bluffs. We crossed the river (or as it is down to a creek here) twice and camped, having traveled twenty-eight miles.

We had the mystery of the night before explained here by seeing the mountain sheep jumping from ledge to ledge and sometimes hundreds of feet from a ledge above to one below, alighting on their heads. There had evidently a drove of them crossed the river going south onto the plains which were mistaken for mules crossing the river. The next alarm was some frisky fellow practicing on the cliffs; anyway we were all satisfied it was no practical joke.

It was fearfully cold on the night of Sunday, June 17th, ice forming half an inch thick. There having been Indians about here our mules would not eat the grass, and they were scared, just ready to catch any sound and stampede. It is strange how fearful a Spanish mule is of an Indian or wolf. We had to secure our mules near the wagons and keep up a fire so they could see, and we put on double guards outside of the light of the fire so as to be sure the Indians did not get in close range.

We ascended a high hill, which was exceedingly rocky; crossed a branch of the Sweetwater, which we called Strawberry creek, several times during the day Sometimes it was swampy, narrow bottoms, sometimes hills or rocks, sometimes a plain on the top of the hill, but no grass. We encamped on the last crossing of the Sweetwater. There was a number of traders here, mountaineers and Mormons. They had lots of ponies, ranging in price from $75 to $130. They sell some, as more or less mules get lame, and some of the men who have money, traveling with uncongenial partners, buy a pony and leave their companions with the ox teams. But the most profitable part of these fellows' proceeding is to run off mules and cattle when they get an opportunity, for they well know the emigrant cannot afford to stop here in this inhospitable clime, where there is but little chance for feed, to hunt for a few missing animals. We traveled twenty miles this day.

Camp 44 was pitched on Monday, June 18th. We struck out early, leaving the waters that flow toward the Missouri and on through the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico, and traveled over a high and almost level plateau for miles. The elevation was so gradual that we could hardly tell when we reached the divide or summit of the great chain of the Rocky mountains. In the place of being a narrow pass, as was the general belief, it was a wide expanse of country, the mountains only showing at a great distance on the left and possibly twenty-five miles to the right. One realized however, that they were very high. It snowed at intervals throughout the day.

We nooned at Pacific Springs, three miles from the summit, the first water that runs toward the Pacific Ocean.

We crossed dry sand and camped on high ground, with only the water we had in our kegs for cooking, but we had good bunch grass for our mules and large sagebrush for fuel; and it was something needful, for it was fearfully cold. We had not had so long a stretch of good road since we left the States, traveling twenty-nine miles without locking a wheel. That the reader may realize the difference between locking a wagon in those days—forty-five years ago—and now, we would say: There were no brakes for locking wagons. The wagon-brake is a California invention. Prior to that there was a chain on the side of the wagon box, which was put between spokes and fastened. So it took two men to run a wagon in a hilly country—one to drive and one to lock and unlock the wheels.

I should think there would be a lot of disgusted fellows when they find the much-dreaded south pass, that they had been rushing to reach, such a place, instead of the narrow defile, difficult of passing, as they had been led to believe it was.

Camp 45, on Tuesday June 19th; there was ice half an inch thick. We got on the road at 6 a. m., and in one mile we came to the forks of the road, the left going to Salt Lake via Fort Bridger and the right hand being known as the Sublett's cut-off to Fort Hall. Formerly the Oregonian and California emigrants went by Fort Bridger, but the past two years they had mostly taken the right hand road. So we took that although it was understood there was a forty-five-mile desert before we came to Green river. In six miles we reached the Little Sandy, and six miles further we reached the Big Sandy by noon, traveling thirteen miles. Having reduced our loading so that it could be put into two wagons, we concluded to use the other wagon to cook a good meal and keep warm, as it was very cold. After arranging our loading into two wagons and partaking of a sumptuous meal prepared by one who had become quite proficient in camp cooking, we filled our kegs with water, so as to have some for our mules on the morrow. Everything being ready for an early start, we turned in for the night.

On Wednesday, June 20th, camp was pitched. We left camp next morning at 3 a. m.. for our long drive. The road was fair for three miles, then we came to a swamp or alkali flat that was very bad. After that, for twenty-five miles the road was fine, rolling but firm, the kind to make good time. The remainder was quite rough, and we did not reach the river until after dark. We camped two miles above the ferry, where we first came to the river, traveling forty-three miles.

Take Care! There is Danger

In allowing inactivity of the kidneys to grow through neglect. The deadly shoals of Bright's disease and diabetes will wreck the goodly bark of health if it is allowed to drift rudderless upon them. The bladder, too, if inactive, and judicious medication does not speedily direct the helm toward the port of safety, will be whelmed by the quicksand of disease. In selecting a diuretic, let your choice fall upon Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which stimulates the renal organs without irritating or exciting them, two effects to be apprehended from the unmedicated stimuli largely resorted to These have a tendency to react prejudicially. The Bitters invigorate the kidneys and bladder, in common with the nerves and the digestive organs, and so afford lasting aid. It also affords dual assistance in preventing and curing intermittent and remittent fever. Biliousness, constipation and rheumatism it also subjugates.

CHURCH NOTES.

Topics Discussed by the Ministers Yesterday.

An Adventist church was organized yesterday morning at 71 North Daly street, at the residence of S. W. Chase, by Rev. Mr. Hughes, lately from Lemars, Iowa. The church will meet temporarily in one of the East Side halls until a building can be put up.

Dr. R. S. Cantine preached again yesterday morning in the Fort-street church, Dr. Wood, of South Pasadena, relieving him at night. Dr. Cantine's health is much improved, but he is still greatly troubled with a persistent cough.

The regular services were held in the First Baptist church yesterday morning and evening, Dr. Read officiating. The Sunday schools connected with this church are making preparations for the proper observance of "Temple Day," the Sunday in March which the Baptist churches devote to raising money for the church extension or home missionary work connected with the denomination.

At the East Side Baptist church yesterday morning, Rev. W. W. Tinker preached a sermon on "Giving." In the evening he resumed his illuminated song services, interrupted by the bad weather of the previous week. The subject last night was the "Temptation," which was well illustrated by fine stereopticon views. The ladies of this church give a "curfew social" tomorrow evening, at which one of the features will be the recitation of the celebrated poem, "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," illustrated with twelve beautiful stereopticon views.

Rev. J. H. Phillips preached an excellent sermon yesterday morning, in the East Los Angeles Congregational church, on the "Necessity for Revivals in Church Work." In the evening the Sunday school gave an excellent entertainment, which was largely attended.

Rev. J. H. Collins gave the first of a series of sermons on "Pilgrim's Progress," illustrated with stereopticon views, in the Third Congregational church last night. At the morning service Rev. Ford preached a sermon in the interest of the home mission work. This church has given the largest sum per capita to the home mission work of any Congregational church in Southern California, amounting to two dollars for each member on the books.

At the First Congregational church Rev. R. G. Hutchins preached yesterday, taking for his topics: "The Transfiguration of Human Life" and "Helping Men to Get Their Inheritance."

Rev. A. J. Wells chose for the subject of his sermon yesterday morning at the Plymouth Congregational church: "The Christ Life, Broad and Free."

Rev. H. W. DuBose's sermons yesterday at the Trinity M. E. church were on: "The Need of the Churches" and "A Los Angeles Secret."

At the Church of the Unity Rev. Eli Fay preached yesterday morning on: "Strength Acquired Through Conflict."

IN SAN FRANCISCO.

The "Rural Californian" to the Fore—Platt's Hall Secured.

Citrus fairs and exhibitions seem to be the general order of the day, not only under the auspices of the State, but every section, during the past year, that grows citrus fruits to any extent has had its exhibition, and placed before admiring crowds the luscious golden spheres, which of late years have rechristened California the Golden State. Not only have these displays been made in the immediate sections where the fruit is grown to perfection, but the fruit has, in many cases, been sent to distant cities for the same purpose, notably the exhibit of San Bernardino county, now in New York, and the exhibit of Placer county at Platt's hall, San Francisco.

Following the suggestion of the San Francisco Chronicle, that nothing could possibly be of more benefit to Southern California than to place on exhibition in San Francisco a fine line of the various varieties of oranges and lemons grown to perfection in this section of the State, the Rural Californian has secured, through the courtesy of Mr. Clarence J. Wetmore, of the State Viticultural Commission, the use of Platt's hall, and all the furniture and appurtenances ready for placing and arranging the fruit in a fine series of stars, harps, tripods, pyramids, etc., etc., well calculated to show the same off to the most advantage.

The only expenses that the growers would incur in placing an exhibit of the citrus fruits of this section in San Francisco would be for a man to look after, and take charge of the exhibit, and also the incidental expenses of gas, stationery, etc., but these the Rural Californian will freely pay, if the fruit-growers of the different sections will combine and place on exhibition a display of the fruits grown in the different localities, after the State citrus fair adjourns in Los Angeles.

The benefit to be derived from an exhibition of this kind in the leading city west of the Rocky mountains is not to be overestimated; San Francisco being the commercial headquarters of a vast area of country, always has within her boarders a large floating population—in fact strangers from the four quarters of the globe, seeking openings, and looking for lands and business opportunities. The superior advantages of our soil and climate for the cultivation of citrus fruits are nowhere to be equaled on the footstool, and it must be obvious to all that the opportunity for displaying our fruits has never been so favorable.

A Historical Reception.

The Historical Society of Southern California will give a reception to Dr. Lyman C. Draper this evening in the old city hall. General John Mansfield will deliver the address of welcome. Dr. Draper was corresponding secretary of the Wisconsin State Historical Society for thirty-three years, and built the society up from nothing to third in importance in the United States. His visit to the Pacific Coast is for the especial purpose of interviewing the descendants of Daniel Boone, whose biography he is writing. The meeting is public, and it is expected that a large number of Wisconsin people will attend.

Cancer of the Nose.

In 1875 a sore appeared on my nose, and grew rapidly. As my father had cancer and my husband died of it, I became alarmed, and consulted my physician. His treatment did no good, and the sore grew larger and worse in every way, until I had concluded that I was to die from its effects. I was persuaded to take S. S. S., and a few bottles cured me. This was after all the doctors and other medicines had failed. I have had no return of the cancer.

CHOICE ORANGE LANDS!

AT THE FOOTHILLS IN AZUSA.

We are now SUBDIVIDING one of the choicest 180-ACRE RANCHES in the ORANGE BELT into 10-ACRE TRACTS, to place on the market at present bedrock terms and prices:

Only $150 per acre, or One-fourth Cash, balance 1, 2 and 3 years

We can show you orchards in Azusa where the oranges sold this year for $70 per acre, from trees three years planted, and others from $400 to $500 per acre, according to age. This lovely valley of about 8,000 acres, under the water ditches of the San Gabriel river, is at the altitude just above the frost, fog, smut and scale, making it one of the healthiest as well as the most productive for all purposes of any part of Southern California.

Situated on the Santa Fe railroad, 23 miles from Los Angeles, where the river first leaves the mountains, giving this valley a full and never-failing supply of pure water, standing the test of the dryest seasons. It being also the head of the San Gabriel valley, it is not far enough in the interior to place it beyond the force of the delightful summer breezes from the ocean.

☞We also have some improved places in Azusa.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1890.

Its Effect on Los Angeles.

Since the announcement came from San Francisco that a deal was in progress to put our townsman, I. W. Hellman, at the head of the Nevada Bank of San Francisco, there has not been much doubt in the minds of thinking people that the scheme would be carried out. Mr. Hellman, of course, denied that the deal had been closed, and stated that nothing definite had been arranged, because these were facts. There is never anything definite about such matters until the final papers are signed. But the matter had made so good progress before the press got hold of it that it seemed certain of going through. The retirement of H. W. Hellman from the business he had been so long at the head of and of which he had been the founder, pointed to the certainty of his brother going to San Francisco. However all doubt in the premises seems now removed and in four or five weeks Mr. I. W. Hellman will in all probabilities be at the head of the Nevada Bank.

It is altogether a natural development, devoid of any sensational features, but full of interest to Mr. Hellman's friends in Los Angeles. He began his career here, not only as a banker, but as a business man in any capacity. He is in the truest sense of the term a thoroughly self-made man, the skillful architect of his own colossal fortune. His history is largely the history of Los Angeles, for every great undertaking here for twenty-five years has been in some way connected with his name, and most of them very intimately so. Nothing but matters of the greatest moment would take him away from this city. The circumstances to draw him away exist in the present condition, and possible future, of the Nevada Bank. In spite of the millions of the Bonanza Kings, the concern has been far from prosperous. Indeed it may well be imagined that since the wild wheat deal of three years ago, it has been a serious question whether or not to wind up its affairs and close its doors. Yet there were a great many men of large means stockholders and depositors in the bank. It seemed a pity to close it up. In casting about for a possible president, it is not wonderful that Mr. Hellman's name should have come before the directorate. After it had been mentioned there was no such thing as preventing his being put at the head of affairs excepting the lack of his own consent. And so many of his friends came to the fore with offers to buy stock, that the future of the bank became so assured that he could not well afford to decline the honor and trust. Thus by a natural evolution of events the whole scheme has been developed. The money is there in San Francisco, and Mr. Hellman's well known financial ability and his conservative methods mark him as the man to direct its use. It is all well enough to speculate when there is only some paltry sum at stake. When it comes to the handling of $30,000,000, the main question, indeed the only one, is that of safety. At 3 per cent. the increase from that sum is nearly a million; and at 6 per cent. it is nearly two millions. A conservator is pretty nearly all that is needed. Mr. Hellman is conservative under all circumstances.

The question of interest to us here is what effect will the step have on Los Angeles? It can hardly have any but a good effect. Mr. Hellman remains the president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank, which will go along just as if no change had taken place. Mr. H. W. Hellman, it is understood, will be immediately in charge of its affairs, and he will have a private wire stretched over the Mackay poles to the desk of Mr. I. W. Hellman, on Montgomery street in San Francisco. He can be consulted with the same ease as if he were in this city in his office at the Farmers and Merchants Bank. Therefore no deleterious effect can come to Los Angeles from the proposed change. It is easy to see how many good results may follow to Los Angeles. Mr. Hellman, whose interests here are immense, will be at the head of a bank that will be from the moment he enters it the controlling influence in the finances of the Coast. It will be his pleasure and his interest both to aid in every legitimate enterprise thought of in Los Angeles. He will have control of unlimited funds, and if any Los Angeles industry can only show him it is one of merit, it may safely count on his encouragement.

These views are simply the logic of the events involved. Since the first publication concerning the scheme to this writing no one connected with this journal has had the pleasure of exchanging ten nor five words with either Mr. Hellman or with any one authorized to speak for him. They are our views pure and simple, as they seem to us in the light of all that has been made public.

REPRESENTATIVES in Congress will have an opportunity today of expressing their preferences for the place where the World's Fair is to be held. There will be a great deal of what Col. Robert G. Ingersoll names, "mud patriotism" developed on the occasion. It will be a memorable voting bout before it is settled.

Financial Problems.

Money is extremely scarce in England and America. It is scarce in all parts of this country. Why is this? Two years ago the banks of New York held reserves above the twenty-five per cent. legal limit to the extent of more than $25,000,000. Prior to that this excess of reserves, if memory serves aright, had run up to more than twice that sum. For the past year the reserves in the banks of the metropolis of the country have at no time run above a few millions, nearly all of which have been concentrated in a few banks. At one time within a year only one bank in New York held its full legal reserve, the deficit in the others amounting to millions. Where is all this money gone to? The Paris Exposition seems to be the only discoverable explanation of the present low ebb of the money currents in America and England. It is guessed that the drain on this country for the expenses of visitors to Paris in the year amounted to $100,000,000. But this explanation will not fit the whole problem. The treasury of the United States has disbursed, in some shape, in a little over a year, the greater part of that sum from the surplus accumulated by the honest economy of Mr. Cleveland's administration, Therefore, money ought not to be much closer today than it was a year ago.

Nor will the theory of excess of imports over exports solve the riddle. In 1889 the exports of merchandise from our ports amounted to $827,000,000, the largest ever chronicled in the history of the country for any year excepting one. The imports last year were $770,000,000; so that the net excess in our favor was $57,000,000. The net exports of gold were $39,000,000, and of silver $20,000,000, leaving still a net deficit of $2,000,000 after settling the balance between merchandise and the precious metals too. Usually about $5,000,000 of gold settles all the balances of all nations against the United States. That has been the average for the last six years.

Another puzzling financial problem is the drift of gold. England and Germany demonetized silver in the hope of drawing gold to their coffers, and draining the other countries of this noblest of metals. The gold bugs of America tell us that to replace silver where it justly belongs, and in the position whence it was dislodged by a fraud, would result in draining this country of gold and of flooding us with silver. But the history of the past twenty-five years does not establish any such fact. France, which is a double standard country, has not only more coin in her bank in proportion to her requirements than England or Germany, but she has more gold coin there. England has been in a state of constant terror for a long time lest her bank should become depleted of gold. She has resorted to all sorts of means to maintain her standing in the commercial world, but she is, in spite of all her efforts, steadily losing the place she once held. At times the amount of gold in the vaults of the Old Lady of Threadneedle street has been as low as £19,000,000 to £20,000,000. The Bank of France has steadily twice as much gold in her vaults, and is steadily gaining more while England is losing. At the beginning of 1889 the Bank of France had $200,000,000 in gold and the Bank of England $108,000,000. This year the French concern starts out with $250,000,000, an increase of 25 per cent., while the institution on the banks of the Thames has dropped to $105,000,000, a slight decrease, but still a decrease, and one that alarms the financiers of England, in view of the fact that the drop is steady.

So with the rates of interest. England, under her monometal craze, finds the rates at the bank range all the time at 5 and 6 per cent., instead of the customary 2 to 3 per cent., and the rate in France pursues the even tenor of its way at about 2½ per cent.

The ablest financiers of the world try to account for these queer currents in the monetary affairs of the world, but there is not one of them that can more than guess at the reasons for them. It is to be remembered that important as money is in the affairs of the world, the farthest we have got even in these days of progress, is a clearing house for some of the large cities. There has not yet been thought of a national clearing house, and an international one is an idle dream. Yet both must come in time.

MR. KAUFMAN, a German editor of Cleveland, Ohio, an interview with whom appears in the HERALD'S dispatches this morning, gets at the root of the socialistic situation in Germany. The effort to suppress a large body of people struggling for natural rights always results in spreading their sentiments and in making converts to their cause. He is right again in the point that socialism is popular because it promises the people immunity from military service. Germany is an armed camp. Wherever one goes there are met forts, barracks and arms. The helmeted soldiers of the empire march, countermarch, drill and parade on every village green, and in the streets of every city. The life of the German is a soldier's life. He dons a uniform and shoulders arms before the down sprouts on his cheek, and he does not doff the one nor lay down the other until he begins to grow grey, and even then he is liable to military service under possible emergencies until he dies. The socialistic movement in Germany is a movement for natural rights. A people so enlightened and self-contained as the Germans cannot be governed by despotic methods. Bismarck by his iron will and intense intellect has held the course of events back for a generation, but no one, were he a demigod, can longer stay this current which sets so strong in the direction of a more popular form of government. It is intimated that the young Emperor is disappointed that his own stand in his recent rescripts should have resulted in such sweeping socialistic victories at the polls. If he is, it is hard to conjecture what he expected. If he reads the signs of the times aright, he will grant gradually all the reforms the people are demanding, and thereby save his crown and throne. For the people will not be much longer denied the natural rights for which they clamor.

THERE is a little preliminary skirmishing going on here just now as to the establishing of smelting works in the city. An able letter by Prof. Anthony in the HERALD this morning throws much light on the matter. There is no manner of doubt that here is one of the best points in the country for such an industry. There is no end of valuable ore at our own gates which a smelter would cause to be developed at once. The area contributory to such an enterprise is exceedingly wide. Citizens with large landed, monetary and business interests in the city ought to take this matter up with vigor and push it until the furnaces are lighted and the precious metals being turned out.

CAPTURED IN CANADA.

Absconder Walton Caught After Being Fleeced by Gamblers.

KANSAS CITY, February 23.—Dispatches were received here this evening that Walton, who stole $35,000 from the Pacific Express Company at Dallas, Texas, was captured in St. John, New Brunswick. Only $7,000 was found on him. His offence is not extraditable.

Walton had, according to the detectives' stories, been traveling some time with two gamblers, who it is thought relieved him of a large portion of his ill-gotten wealth. One of them was arrested at Montreal a few days ago, with $3,000 in his possession. It is understood that Walton was preparing to go to Europe from Halifax, and that the gamblers were preparing to rob him before he took the steamer.

ST. JOHN, N. B., February 23.—Walton, the express robber who was arrested here last night, arrived here several days ago in company with John Laird and Frank Brady, two Montreal gamblers, to whom it is claimed he gave a large sum of money to get him out of Canada. They also got more money from him by gambling. They left here a few days ago and went to Montreal where they have been arrested for aiding and abetting Walton in bringing stolen money into Canada. Walton had but $7,000 when arrested. In his valise was found one package of money with the original Dallas wrappings intact.

BERING SEA DISPUTE.

Blaine and Pauncefote Reach an Amicable Settlement.

CHICAGO, February 23.—A Daily News Washington special asserts that Secretary Blaine and the British Minister Pauncefote have reached an amicable agreement on the Bering sea controversy, and the question of damages sustained by the British vessels will be submitted to arbitration. Details of the agreement cannot be obtained, but it is known that the United States will not, under any circumstances, permit foreigners to catch seals in the disputed waters during the seasons when our citizens are prohibited from doing so.

The dispatch adds: The foreign powers have never been formally notified before that these waters are considered a closed sea, and foreign fishers had the nominal liberty to enter the waters from which they had not been formally prohibited. Our seizures therefore were illegal.

The conclusion is drawn that in the agreement Blaine concedes this fact, and Pauncefote concedes the right of the United States to prohibit poaching hereafter. Therefore the United States will pay what damages may be assessed by arbitration, and England guarantees that there will be no more trespassing.

Mackay Non-Suited.

NEW YORK, February 23.—A Paris special published this morning says the action of Millionaire Mackay against Leon Alfassa, as his wife's administrator, came to trial Saturday, and resulted in plaintiff being non-suited. The claim has been dragging in the courts some time, and originated in a loan made by Mackay to Alfassa. The action will probably cost Mackay $25,000 to prosecute.

American Schooners Released.

PANAMA, February 23.—The various American schooners recently seized by the Colombian authorities for contravention of the customs laws, have been released. Colombia claims she has an unquestioned right to close her coast ports to foreign trade that is simply ruining her own traders, who are compelled to pay duties that direct American traders have hitherto evaded.

Atlantic Steamships.

BALTIMORE, February 23. — Arrived: The Weser, from Bremen.

PHILADELPHIA, February 23 — The Marylan l, from London.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The Adriatic, the Queen and City of Chester all from Liverpool; Illinois and Pennland, from Antwerp; the Saale, from Bremen.

Brutal Bruisers.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., February 23.—A brutal prize fight took place this morning between the heavyweights John Aiken of Colorado and Harry Gilmore of Pennsylvania. Thirty-nine rounds were fought, and in the last Aiken's wrist was broken by a blow from Gilmore. The battle was awarded to the latter. Both were badly punished.

The Week's Exchanges.

BOSTON, February 23.—The total gross exchanges for the last week, as shown by dispatches from the leading clearing houses of the United States and Canada, were $950,505,969, an increase of 5.6 per cent. as compared with the corresponding week of last year.

Baseball at Bakersfield.

BAKERSFIELD, February 23.—A picked nine baseball club came from Visalia and played two match games—one yesterday and one today. The visitors were defeated by scores of 13 to 9 and 14 to 1. Great interest was manifested.

Killed Each Other.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., February 23.—John Stringer and Andrew Lane engaged in a drunken brawl at Grays, Kentucky, and killed each other. Lane was shot and Stringer's jugular vein was severed. Stringer had shot eight men.

Mail Robbers in Germany.

BERLIN, February 23.—A gang of robbers stopped a mail coach between Sonderburg and Flensburg, beat the officers in charge into a state of insensibility and then escaped with the valuables.

Died of Injuries.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 23.—Daniel O'Leary, a laborer in the employ of the Southern Pacific railroad, and who was run over by a train at Port Costa yesterday, died this afternoon.

WORLD'S FAIR RACE.

The Grand Opening to Take Place Today.

SPECULATION ON THE RESULT.

Chicago Expected to Take the First Heat—Will a Fair be Held at All?

Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—The eve of the grand race for the World's Fair has been used by the friends of the four contestants in getting into the best possible condition for the opening tomorrow, and arranging plans and counter plans with which to reach any advantage however small, that may present itself. It is on all hands conceded that Chicago will spring immediately to the front and capture the first heat, but there is a wide divergence of opinion as to how many heats it will require for any one of the rivals to distance its competitors. Indeed there is considerable speculation as to whether any fair at all will be held. Opposition to the holding of a fair is gaining ground, and many predict that a formidable array of members will be found opposed to any fair at all, unless the question is settled before a site is chosen.

The concensus of opinion as regards the first ballot is about as follows: Chicago, 100 or 105; New York, 80; St. Louis, 60 or 65, and Washington the remainder, depending somewhat upon the total number of votes cast. It is claimed that the other cities are throwing some of their strength to the Washington party to deceive the others as to their real strength, and partly to establish friendly relations for credit to draw from the latter.

CONGRESSIONAL FORECAST.

World's Fair the Subject of Paramount Interest.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—The subject of paramount interest to come before Congress this week will be the selection by the House of a site for the World's Fair. Balloting will begin tomorrow, but as no city really expects to secure a majority of the votes cast on first ballot, it cannot be predicted when the voting will end. The special order of the House allots but one day for balloting, and according to the procedure arranged by the committee in its report on the bills, each member is to indicate his choice as his name is called. This necessarily will be a slow proceeding, and not many roll calls can be had during the limited time fixed in the special order. But the managers of the fair bills are prepared for this exigency, and will avail themselves of the parliamentary device of taking a recess at the close of the day instead of allowing the House to adjourn, the effect of which will be to carry the legislative day of Monday along until a site is selected. After this has been done, the House will again turn its attention to the consideration of contested election cases.

This promises to be a busy week in the Senate. The order adopted under the resolution of Sherman to consider public building bills was not exhausted Friday, and at every possible opportunity the calendar will be called with a view to cleaning it of measures of this class.

The Oklahoma Townsite bill will be up daily during the morning hour until disposed of, which it is hoped will be before the end of the week.

Evarts has again given notice that he will call up his resolution declaring that it is competent for the Senate to elect a President pro tem, who shall hold office during the pleasure of the Senate. This will doubtless provoke a discussion of constitutional power. The resolution was approved by the caucus of the Republican Senators last year, but it was seriously combatted then by a large majority. It will, however, be adopted, and the Senate will, it is understood, choose Senator Ingalls to preside during the absence of Vice-President Morton, who, with his family, will start for Florida, March 8th, to be absent a month.

ALASKA CUSTOMS STATIONS.

The Need of Additional Ports of Delivery.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—Senator Dolph's bill to constitute Mary Island, Wrangel, Juneau, Sand Point, Kodiak and Ounalaska ports of delivery within the collection district of Alaska, and appropriating $25,000 to erect the necessary buildings on Mary Island and Sand Point, was referred by the Senate committee on commerce to Secretary Windom for an expression of his views thereon. In response the Secretary says:

Mary Island is of no value except for custom house purposes. It is recommended as the best site for the initial port of the peninsular trade, by the officers of customs, revenue, marine and coast survey and shipping and mercantile interests.

Wrangel, one hundred miles north of Mary Island, has already been constituted a customs station by administrative action. It is an old and somewhat important station of trade.

Juneau is on the main land of the peninsula, two hundred miles north of Wrangel, towards Sitka. The necessary offices and buildings are there; it is a large and flourishing town, the center of the mining industries of the Territory.

Kodiak is on the island of that name, nearly one hundred miles west of Sitka. It is the centre of the salmon fishing and canning industry, important resources of the Territory. There is a single officer, and proper building on the ground.

Sand Point is on Popoff island, one of the Aleutian chain, several hundred miles from the main land. It is the rendezvous for hundreds of fishing and hunting vessels, and, therefore, one of the most important customs stations in the Territory. As the inducements for smuggling and engaging in demoralizing traffic with the natives, are so great and so largely exercised, no time should be lost in providing the necessary supervision, says the Secretary.

Ounalaska is in the Aleutian chain, 200 miles west of Sitka, at the principal entrance of the Bering sea. A customs officer has been stationed there many years.

Except at Mary Island and at Sand Point, the Secretary says, there will be no expense consequent upon the passage of the bill.

Additional Appropriations.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—The Secretary of the Treasury has submitted to Congress estimates of additional appropriations for the current fiscal year, as follows: Printing the publications of the hydrographic office, $3,000; support of non-reservation Indian schools, $292,625. The appropriations asked for amount to $420,500, making the total amended estimated appropriations $713,125.

ECCLESIASTIC MATTERS.

Cardinal Gibbons's Solution of the Negro Problem.

BALTIMORE, February 23.—Cardinal Gibbons began today a course of Lenten sermons. Before beginning his sermon today, he made an address to the congregation on behalf of negro and Indian missions. "There are now," said his Eminence in closing, "about seven million negroes in the United States, and the negro question has become a serious problem to the American people. The best solution of the problem, in my judgment, will be found in Christianizing the negroes."

BISHOP WIGGES'S EDICT.

NEWARK, N. J., February 23.—A letter from Bishop Wigges was read today in all the Catholic churches of this diocese, urging parents, under pain of excommunication, to send their children to parochial schools. The letter was issued last week, but was not read in all the churches last Sunday. The Bishop gave strict orders that it be read today on account of the alleged refusal of Father Carrigan of Hoboken to read it.

LENTEN OBLIGATIONS SET ASIDE.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., February 23.—The Western Watchman, a prominent Catholic weekly journal of this city, prints a letter from its Roman correspondent, in which he says the Congregation of the Universal Inquisition has issued a decree signed by Cardinal Monaco, and published in the official organ of the Vatican, abolishing the Lenten fast and abstinence this year. This is extended to the whole world, the letter says, wherever the ordinaries shall judge the dispensation necessary. The reason for setting aside the Lenten obligation, it is claimed, is the prevailing influenza which is making such ravages in all parts of Europe, and thought to be prevalent in the United States. This decree, it is said, will be quite a surprise to Roman Catholics, as it is stated to be the first one of the kind ever issued in the history of the church.

INTERNATIONAL RAILWAY.

One of the Projects of the Pan-American Congress.

CHICAGO, February 23.—The Daily News' Washington correspondent claims that the committee on railways of the Pan-American Congress has made a report, which will be adopted, recommending the construction of an international railroad, to connect the railway system of North America with that of the Argentine Republic, and declaring their belief that such an enterprise will do more to promote the peace and commercial prospects of the American republics than any other possible means. The details are elaborated, the first of which is an international commission of engineers with headquarters at Washington to direct a topographical, geographical and mineralogical survey of the route from the City of Mexico south. President Harrison and the administration are said to be deeply interested in the project.

TOM PLATT'S MISSION.

He Belongs to a Syndicate That Bid on the Seal Fisheries.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The World this morning asserted that Tom Platt's real mission to Washington was not in the interest of the World's Fair. It says he is a member of a syndicate formed several months ago to bid for the Alaska seal fisheries. The name of Platt's company is "The North American Trading Company of West Virginia." It is learned that among the stockholders of the company are Stephen B. Elkins, Thomas C. Platt, a brother of Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, and a wealthy granite man in Maine, who is a close personal friend of Blaine. It is reported in addition that the list includes several United States Senators, General Alger, of Michigan, and possibly Secretary Blaine.

MONTANA MINES.

Great Excitement Over New Discoveries of Gold.

ST. PAUL, Minn., February 23.—A letter received here from Montana says the north half of that State is excited over unexpected discoveries of placer gold, quartz and silver and lead galena in the mountain spurs and hills of the great reservation, as well as in the Bell mountains. One mill near Maiden is crushing enough rock with a twenty-stamp mill to turn out every month $100,000 in bullion. A projected railroad to be extended soon from Great Falls will, it is believed, hasten the development of that section into one of the richest mineral belts in America. The State Mining Inspector says over 12,000 claims have been located in Montana under the mining laws.

THE CHEROKEE STRIP.

Cattlemen Preparing to Vacate. The Indians Indignant.

KANSAS CITY, February 23.—President Hewitt, of the Cherokee Strip Live Stock Association, says his company will, next month, take the necessary steps toward the removal of their cattle by October 1st, in compliance with the President's order. He does not know where they will ship, but supposes in all directions. He exhibited a letter from Chief Mayes on the subject, in which the Chief says: "The Cherokees look upon this course of the administration as very unreasonable and unjust to them, and without lawful authority. To be dispossessed of the use and benefit of their lands is something the Cherokee nation cannot submit to under any circumstances, unless forced to do so."

A BASEBALL SYNDICATE.

A Million Dollars Offered for the National League Franchise.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The latest baseball story comes in the form of a report that a syndicate through the law firm of Tracy, MacFarland, Ivins, Boardman & Platt, have offered $1,000,000 for the franchise of the National Baseball League, which embodies ten clubs. This is rating the clubs at $100,000 each, and would seem to place the League leaders in a peculiar position in the light of the statements they have made frequently concerning their small profits. The law firm in question refuses to declare the names of the syndicate people, while Mr. Day, of the New York Ball Club, refused to talk of the matter.

Fatal Lamp Explosion.

NEW YORK, February 23.—By the explosion of a lamp in the cabin of the canal boat Chandler, lying at the foot of West Sixteenth street early this morning, Dennis Daily, the three-year-old son of Captain Pat K. Daily, was burned to death, and Captain Daily, his wife and two other children were so seriously burned that they had to be taken to the hospital.

Fell Released on Bail.

NEW YORK, February 23.—George H. Pell, the alleged bank-wrecker, secured bondsmen today and was released from custody.

WALNUT GROVE DAM.

The Rumor of Its Bursting Confirmed.

EVERYTHING SWEPT BEFORE IT.

Great Loss of Life Anticipated—The President of the Company Among the Victims.

Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., February 23.—A general feeling of excitement and suspense prevailed here today over the news of the disaster at Walnut Grove. The courier who brought the news arrived at eight o'clock last night. As he left immediately after daylight, he could give few particulars. Five bodies had been recovered and identified when he left. The distance from Prescott to the storage dam by the shortest route is forty miles, while the service dam is fifteen miles further down the stream. Immediately on receipt of the news Adjutant-General O'Neill left here for the scene of the disaster, with two surgeons to assist the sufferers and superintend the burial of the dead. A representative of the Journal-Miner accompanied the party, and will send a courier with particulars. It will take at least twenty-four hours for the round trip.

A HOPEFUL VIEW OF THE DISASTER.

As yesterday's courier came from the lower dam, the road from which does not pass the upper one, it was only surmised that it had given way on account of the immense quantity of water coming down so suddenly. A more hopeful feeling exists this evening on account of no direct news being received that the upper dam is broken. The reservoir may still be intact, as the flood may have been caused by the opening of the gates to relieve it from threatening danger.

THE WORST NEWS CONFIRMED.

LATER—Garther Allen, formerly interested in the works, and John McDonald, one of the owners of the Blue Dick mine, have just returned from Dosori's divide, fourteen miles south of town, from where a view of the dam could be had, and report that it has gone without a doubt. The wash of the waterway could be plainly discerned, with their powerful glasses, high up on the side of the cliff, while the break in the stonework of the dam was also plainly seen. The break in the dam sloped to the eastward, leaving the impression that the main break was on the east side.

No estimate can yet be made of the loss of life or property, but the latter will undoubtedly run into millions, and the former must be great, as many families were living in the narrow cañons near the stream. Confirmation of the news has heightened the excitement here, and further news is anxiously awaited.

FAULTY CONSTRUCTION OF THE DAM.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 23.—In the printed transactions of the regular meeting of the Polytechnical Society of the Pacific Coast, held in October, 1888, appears a description of the Walnut Grove dam by Luther Wagoner, one of the directors of the society. From this it appears that the dam is situated on Hassayampa creek, about thirty-five miles south of Prescott, its elevation above sea level being 3,500 feet. The drainage area above the dam is 390 square miles. The dam was built to store water principally for some alleged rich placers on the mesa eighteen miles below the dam. The report continues: "The history of the construction of the dam is one full of blunders, mainly caused by the officers of the company in New York." Its alleged faulty construction is then stated in considerable detail. In brief, the quality of cement and lumber were not up to the usual standard. Some of the work was constructed in the absence of the chief engineer. Wagoner was assured by the men who did the work, that in the cementing they did not go to bed rock, and that they worked in four feet of water. The labor was also unreliable, perhaps owing to the presence of saloons and gambling shops, and totally inadequate provisions were made for the comfort of the men, by either the company or the contractor.

SOME OF THE PROBABLE VICTIMS.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The president of the Walnut Grove Storage Company is Martin S. Van Buren, of this city. He went to Prescott in November with his daughter Nellie and her cousin, Mary Hanlon. He intended to inspect the dams. His friends could not hear from him by telegraph today, and are anxious for his safety and that of the ladies.

A GREEN GRIPMAN

Causes the First Accident on Portland's Cable Road.

PORTLAND, Or., February 23.—A car on the new cable road just opened, was coming down a grade this evening, when the gripman lost control, and the car, with two men and a woman on board, dashed to the bottom of the grade, where it flew the track. The lady was unhurt, but the men were severely bruised. The car was completely demolished. It is stated that the gripman and conductor jumped off when they saw the car was about to get beyond control.

Ashore On the Rocks.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 23.—This evening the barkentine General Fairchild, with coal from Departure Bay, while being towed in by the tug Sea Queen, was carried ashore by the strong ebb tide on the rocks just inside Fort Point, where she pounded badly. Two other tugs went to her assistance and got her off. She was towed up the bay leaking badly.

Death of Equestrienne Keller.

SACRAMENTO, February 23.—Miss Keller, who accompanied Buffalo Bill's wild west combination to the Paris Exposition, died here today of pneumonia. She was a daring race and hurdle rider, and has frequently won the first prizes given by State agricultural associations in Nevada and California.

Fire at Cheney, Washington.

SPOKANE FALLS, Wash., February 23.—News has been received here that fire tonight destroyed a block in the business center of the town of Cheney. The fire is now under control. The Spokane fire department was called upon for assistance, but a later telegram said help was not needed.

Hail at Monrovia.

MONROVIA, Cal., February 23.—[Special].—There was a heavy hailstorm here at 5 o'clock this evening. The valley below was covered with hailstones. A strong northeastern wind is blowing. The thermometer registers 40, and it is storming heavily in the mountains.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS.

Their Remarkable Gains Accounted For.

WHAT THEIR VICTORY MEANS.

More Liberal Government for the Fatherland—The Anti-Socialist Law Did It.

Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, February 23.—Major Kaufman, editor of the Anzeiger, and a lifelong student of German politics, talking today about the recent elections in Germany, says: "The great victory of the Socialists is due to Bismarck and the Anti-Socialistic law. The law first made in 1876 expired by limitation in two years, and has been renewed every two years since at the request of the Government. The natural consequences of such a law followed its enforcement. Men expelled from their homes went from place to place agitating, and so the expulsion clause helped to spread socialistic ideas.

"In Germany the lot of a common man is to pay taxes, serve as a soldier and keep his mouth shut. The Socialists want to do away with the army, and claim that if they get in power there will be no more war. It is easy to imagine how such an argument will work upon the classes who furnish the men for war, and who always live under threatening rumors of war.

"The workingmen are also told that when the Socialists are in power they will not have to work so hard nor so long. These arguments have won thousands and thousands of votes.

"The result of the election will be, that instead of having only eleven members of the Reichstag, the Socialists will have thirty-five, and will be entitled to representation on all committees. The Anti-Socialist law will fail. They will have liberty in organizing openly, and an opportunity will be given them to develop their programme of the future. Bismarck or the Emperor will try to get a majority by making concessions to the Catholics, but the Government is really in a predicament. The Emperor can dissolve the Reichstag if he desires, but he must figure on a new election, and I think the result will be that Germany will drift more and more into a parliamentary government, and the rights of the crown will be lessened. There is no danger that the Socialistic party will become the ruling one, but the result of the election means that Germany will be more liberally governed, and the working classes will probably be benefited. The Socialistic party of Germany are not anarchists; they are as bitterly opposed to anarchy as are other people."

THE CARTEL PARTIES' LOSSES.

BERLIN, February 23.—The cartel parties have as yet secured only 74 seats, as against 213 held previously. The comparison between the strength of the parties of the last Reichstag and the new body, so far as known, shows:

	Formerly.	Now.
Conservatives	78	48
Imperialists	38	12
National Liberals	92	14
Centrists	103	86
Freisinnigge	35	20
Socialists	11	20

BRAVO! DOM PEDRO.

He Will Renounce His Title to Return to Brazil.

NEW YORK, February 23.—A Washington special says: Charles R. Flint told your correspondent that he has just seen a Paris letter from a close friend of the deposed Emperor of Brazil, stating positively that Dom Pedro will, when the constitutional convention meets at Rio de Janeiro in November next, notify the body of his desire to renounce all claim to his title, and ask that he be permitted to return to his people as a private citizen, and aid them in firmly establishing a republic. The letter expressed the opinion that as soon as the convention has received Dom Pedro's resignation, an ironclad will be dispatched to Europe to bring Dom Pedro and family back to their native land. Flint said: "I am thoroughly convinced that this will be done."

The Effect of Releasing Orleans.

PARIS, February 23.—It is leaking out that the Government's intention to release the Duke of Orleans caused the Radicals in the Deputies to propose that immediate amnesty be granted all persons found guilty of state offenses during the past decade. The proposal was carried, and will be the first subject of discussion tomorrow. The Government will oppose the motion.

Wholesale Infanticide.

LONDON, February 23.—A terrible story of wholesale infanticide was revealed by firemen at work on the debris after the burning of a house at Warsaw. Beneath the floor the corpses of fourteen infants were found. The establishment was presided over by a midwife, who, with her sister and two daughters, were arrested.

Little Alfonso Again Ailing.

MADRID, February 23.—The young King of Spain is again indisposed.

Sunday Night Entertainment.

Sunday night entertainments are practically established in New York. Concerts are given in four different places every Sunday night, a regular series of benefits are going on, and there are two lecturers giving magic lantern shows. As all of these shows are strictly first-class and run in an elaborate way, the great army of restless New Yorkers who cannot spend an evening at home is finally content. With the Eden Musee and the variety show of Koster & Bial's, there is practically a wide field to choose from.—[N. Y. Sun.

Oleomargarine.

The attempt to crush out of use, by legislation, one of the most brilliant discoveries of the age, namely the manufacture of butter from the fat of the ox, equally as wholesome as that made from the fat (cream) of the cow, is a libel on civilization; and, as depriving the masses of a better article of food at cheaper rates, than many of them have been accustomed to have, or can now procure, would be fiercely resented by them, if once properly and popularly understood.—[David A. THE DEPRESSED FARMER.

Why Should There Be Any Despondency Over the Farm?

A bill is before the United States Senate to create a commission to inquire into the causes of the "present depressed condition" of farming industry in the American Union. The measure was drafted by a Republican Senator, who is its sponsor in that body. It is an admission that speaks volumes. Why should agriculture in the United States be in a "depressed condition?"

Here we have a glorious climate, a fertile soil, machinery to replace manual labor in the field—multiplying that labor a hundred fold—an aggressive population that glories in a tradition of human liberty centuries old. Nor is that all. We have railways, canals and natural waterways that annihilate space, bringing the farmer to the gates of every market in Christendom, if no artificial barriers intervene. We have the blessed tariff that affords the "home market," which in the Republican lexicon means protection and plenty, and yet the farmer is "depressed." His acres are plastered over with mortgages, and he is rapidly degenerating into the place of a dependent tenant.

The tariff set out to make the farmer rich by taxation, and for a third of a century he has invoked the rich man's law and poor man's tax that takes from him forty-seven per cent. and puts it in the pockets of the man for whom the law was made.

Though to wish were to will, though every year were fat as those Joseph interpreted, though all time were harvest, with such a system as that now "depressing" the farmer, he would find Jordan a hard road to travel, when skirmishing round to get the money with which to protect somebody, who is engaged in no more honest calling than the mortgaged tenantry the great American class has become. Bring on your commission and let it make its lying report, doubtless already written.—[Louisville Times.

ARIZONA'S NATURAL BRIDGE.

One of the Greatest Curiosities in the United States.

Natural Bridge, on Pine creek, in the northern part of Gila county, is one of the greatest natural curiosities in the United States, equaling, if not surpassing the Natural Bridge of Virginia. It spans the creek at a height of about 200 feet, and the walls of the cañon rise above it on either side 700 or 800 feet, and on one side form a perpendicular precipice.

The bridge is of lime formation, and the inside of the great arch, which is some 250 feet across, is worn by the water as smooth as though chiseled by the skillful hand of a stonemason. The arch on top is nearly, if not quite 400 feet in width, 1,000 feet in length across the cañon, and at the thinnest part only six feet through. About the center of the arch is a hole large enough to admit the body of a man, and through which one can look down into the crystal pool of water 200 feet below.

The dike which forms the bridge extends in a sweeping curve up the right side of the stream, and, together with the bridge proper, affords a surface area of about 100 acres of fertile land, which David Gowan has converted into a fine farm. A spring issues from the right side of the cañon at a height to admit of the water being easily conducted to any portion of the farm, and the volume is great enough to fill a ditch four feet wide and two feet deep, and to irrigate much more land than is available for cultivation.

The climate at the bridge is exceedingly equitable, being warmer in the summer and much milder in winter than that of the surrounding country, and to this fact is ascribed the wonderful variety of vegetable growth, numbering 250 species of trees, shrubs, vines and plants. The vicinity abounds in numerous fossils and shells, and wherever moisture percolates through the calcareous rock beautiful stalactites are formed. Underneath the bridge are numerous caves, some of which have never been explored and which are lined with these opaque cones resembling huge icicles.—[Boston Transcript.

A Quadruple Murder.

QUEBEC, February 23.—Rudolph Dubois murdered his wife, mother-in-law and two children at the village of St. Albans today, while crazed with liquor. He made his escape, but the citizens are now hunting him.

When Evening Shadows Fall.

When evening shadows fall
She hangs her cares away,
Like empty garments on the wall,
That hides her from the day.
And while old memories throng
And vanished voices call,
She lifts her grateful heart in song
When evening shadows fall.

Her weary hands forget
The burdens of the day;
The weight of sorrow and regret
In music rolls away.
And from the day's dull tomb,
That holds her in its thrall,
Her soul springs up in lily bloom
When the evening shadows fall.

"THE KING'S TOUCH."

In England, two centuries ago, popular superstition credited the "Royal Touch" with curing scrofula. These superstitious practices have now become obsolete, and in their place we have a scientific remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which eliminates the impurities from the blood by the natural channels, thereby cleansing the system from all taints and impurities from whatever cause arising. It is truly a royal remedy, world-famed and the only liver, lung and blood remedy guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. As a regulator of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, "Golden Medical Discovery" cures all bilious attacks, Indigestion and Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea and kindred ailments. As an alterative, or blood-purifier, it manifests its marvelous properties in the cure of the worst Skin and Scalp Diseases, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, and Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, as well as Lung-scrofula, commonly known as Pulmonary Consumption, if taken in time and given a fair trial. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff, in the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and to answer the complaint, as amended, filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county; or, if served elsewhere, within thirty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court for the foreclosure of a mortgage described in the said complaint, and executed by the said D. Albert Earl to said Henry Charles, on the 7th day of March, A. D. 1888, to secure the payment of eight promisory notes of that date, made by said D. Albert Earl, each for $2,500, of which four of said notes were payable on or before nine months from date, and four of said notes were payable on or before fourteen months from date, and all of said notes bearing interest at 7 per cent. per annum from date until paid, payable at maturity or to compound; all of said notes payable in U. S. gold coin to said Henry Charles or order; that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of the balance due on said notes, to-wit: $15,000, with interest on $7,500 from March 7, 1888, and on $7,500 from December 7, 1888, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, (it being alleged that two of said notes have been satisfied and that the interest on three others of said notes has been paid up to December 7, 1888); and also reasonable attorneys fees to be fixed by the Court, and costs of suit; and in case such proceeds are not sufficient to pay the same, then to obtain an execution against said D. Albert Earl for the balance remaining due; and also that the defendants and all persons claiming by, through or under them, or any of them, may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption and interest in and to said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief. Reference is had to complaint as amended for particulars.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as amended, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the said complaint.

Notes of Plays and Players From Everywhere.

GOSSIP FROM THE WINGS.

Maggie Mitchell to Appear Here Shortly—Other Events in the Near Future.

Sara Bernhardt, according to a rumor that has been cabled from Paris, is soon to marry again.

Pretty Bettina Padelford has retired from the Seven Ages company and been succeeded by Elvia Crox.

Stuart Robson will next year revive A Comedy of Errors, The Henrietta having been nearly worked out.

An English syndicate has purchased a two-thirds interest in Forepaugh's show on a valuation of $1,900,000.

Hans von Bulow's sixtieth birthday was celebrated January 8th, at Hamburg, by a grand concert under his direction.

George Ohnet, the French author, is dramatizing his "Dernier Amour" for Miss Genevieve Ward. It must be a sort of dernier ressort for her.

A dramatic representation of the adventures of Stanley is being prepared for one of the English theaters, which will present it in grand style.

Ada Glasca has rejoined the Conried Opera Company. Miss Glasca has the luck of owning property worth a quarter of a million dollars, and can afford to say "no pay, no play."

Pretty Annie Russell has just submitted to a dangerous surgical operation and is now in a private hospital in New York. It will be some time before she will be well enough to return to the stage.

Maggie Mitchell, who is now playing to crowded houses in San Francisco, will commence an engagement here on March 3d. She will appear in Ray, Little Barefoot and Fanchon. Maggie has recently been married, and this is said to be her farewell tour of the United States.

Mrs. Leslie Carter is to make her debut in a society drama at the Broadway, New York, November 10th, the time being a part of that held by Mr. Abbey for Mary Anderson. And it is said that Paul Potter, of Chicago, has been paid $3,000 to write a new play for her. Who's next?

The Nellie McHenry Company have dropped the new title For Sweet Charity's Sake for the old play and returned to its original name, Green Room Fun. The old play with the new title has not "caught on" at all, and Manager Fred Maeder is going to try if there is anything in a name after all.

Miss Pauline Hall indignantly contradicts the report that she is about marrying Mr. McClellan, or anybody else. Miss Hall writes: I have everything in the world that I want. I had one husband, and that was enough. If I ever change my mind, which I cannot do at present if I would, as I have not yet been divorced from my husband, we having only separated, I will let the world know.

Is matrimony nowadays too expensive? Billy Bliss is not the only man who thinks it is. Here is Emerson, an endman, with a salary higher than a Supreme Court judge, who declares that bamboozle entertainment has reached its limit in pretentiousness and must eventually go back to its first simplicity. "You," says Emerson, "the negro actor himself is tired of spangle business. No man can feel at home in a glim-glam glitter costume, especially if he has to do a lively 'turn' of some sort."

Among the purchases made by Miss Adele Fayn during her recent visit to France were some very interesting relics to be used as properties in her forthcoming tour of America with the Lyceum theater success, The Dead Heart. At Marseilles she succeeded in buying the guillotine that has been on exhibition so long in the museum there and that did service during the reign of terror. She also brought back a small brass field piece that bears the scars of many battles during Napoleon's time, and for which she paid 2,200 francs. A pair of shackles with chains and an old French flag, both of which have historical connections, complete the collection.

H. J. Sargent, the first manager to introduce the talented Modjeska to the public, has come back from England with a new star, also related to the nobility. She is Miss. Churchill-Jodrell. When a New York reporter interviewed the lady she naively remarked that her favorite play is London Assurance. "There is sporting character in it," she said, "and having been the owner of sixteen race horses you will see the reason of my choice." No wonder that Mrs. Brown-Potter and that other accomplished actress, Mrs. Langtry, fled from the United States at the approach of their new rival. If Mrs. Churchill-Jodrell is fond of sport, as she says, and is pretty, she will find plenty of it in America.

A young American singer in London has a white kid glove spotted with royal blue, blood of England. This is how it happened: The Prince of Wales was at the theater where she was singing, and between the second and third acts she was introduced to the Prince, who in taking his bonbonnière from the buttonhole of his "chief-de-cuisine" to present it to Miss Palmer, covertly pricked his finger. Suddenly Manager Marius shouted "Clear the stage!" when prince and artists hastily shook hands, with the unavoidable result that the white kid glove of the young actress was stained by a couple of drops of the royal blue blood of Edward, Prince of Wales, the future King of England.

Margaret Mather, with commendable enterprise, has purchased Barbier's new version of Joan d'Arc, in which Sara Bernhardt is now creating a great sensation in Paris. The purchase includes, besides the manuscript and the score of the incidental music, the entire scenery and 300 costumes by Worth, now used in the elaborate production at the Porte St. Martin. Miss Mather will produce the play in this country early next fall on the same magnificent scale, it is said, that the play is now receiving in Paris. Barbier's new version, according to French critics, is a vast improvement over the old play that was published nearly a score of years ago, and Gounod has contributed new music, which is sung by a chorus of 300 voices.

SOME HOBBIES.

They Are All Right If They Are Good Ones—A Diversity of Fads.

It is a good thing for rich men to have fads. A hobby is not only a distributor of wealth in many ways, but when it takes the shape of collecting it is a conservator of riches, too, while it is more than useful in occupying hours that might elsewise be given over to the services of the—ahem! Books and pictures are the commoner materials that rich collectors accumulate, and in our cities millions of dollars are locked up in these treasures; but the hobby takes many other forms: Mr. George W. Childs is as noted for his collection of clocks as for his charities, and another distinguished editor, Charles A. Dana, is an authority on orchids and porcelain. Some people prefer violins—instruments made by Stradivarius and Guarnerius, and worth thrice their weight in gold, for use and age have mellowed them until they sing like angels under the touch of a master; but masters are seldom allowed to touch them, and more's the pity. For 2 000 years coins have been a subject of esteem, not only with people who spend them but with those who have an eye for artistic beauty; and it may be remarked, en passant, that our own coinage is a pretty bad thing to look upon, especially the silver pieces decorated with a goddess of liberty whose legs grow out of her waist and whose hair grows where her face ought to be.

Postage stamps have engaged more than juvenile interest, and there are philatelic clubs in this land whose albums are worth a comfortable fortune. Mr. Brayton Ives, a well-known member of the New York Stock Exchange, solaces his leisure with the perusal of ancient missals, so ancient as to caligraphy and orthography that few people else can read them. He knows a genuine antique from a bogus one at a glance, and is fond, too, of editions de luxe and rich bindings. The autograph fever has never raged as fiercely in this country as it has abroad, and many so-called autograph collections contain little but signatures written on cards; things that the advanced collector would consign to the waste basket, for he is after letters, documents and manuscripts. The poets Stedman and Aldrich have gathered a large number of manuscripts, as their literary friendships and editorial functions have enabled them to do, and Mr. Stedman has "extended" his copies of his own books with portraits and original letters. It is doubtful if $5,000 would represent the worth of his extra illustrated copy of The Poets of America. One broker in New York spends his superfluous wealth on sapphires. He has a case of these stones that delights the very souls of all who see them. A Brooklyn man rides a similar and equally expensive hobby, and his diamonds, rubies, emeralds, topazes, zircons and tourmalines are said to rival in splendor the crown jewels. This was one of Mr. Beecher's delights, and he always had gems wrapped in bits of coarse paper carelessly mixed with small change and keys in his pockets.

The house of Tiffany owns a sumptuous case of jewels, cut in the rough, all of which were found in American soil, and were exhibited recently in Paris. The mineralogical expert of this house, Mr. George F. Kunz, says there are not over 100 gem collectors in this country. He himself is the owner of a remarkable group of meteors, mostly from Mexico and the United States. The finest private collection of minerals in the world is that of Mr. Clarence S. Bement, of Philadelphia, who has, by search and purchase, acquired a remarkable number of them, typical of their species in color and crystalization, and many of marvelous beauty.

The collection occupies a large room in his house that has been fitted with cases so placed as to secure light on each, and it includes many of the finest and rarest specimens that have ever been discovered, including the largest known crystal of emerald—a North Carolina product. Mineral hunters and dealers, on finding anything extra good, do not think of selling until they have heard from Mr. Bement, and he is said to have enriched them to the extent of $125,000, while his museum is constantly growing. One of the minerals associated with the zinc ores of Franklin, N. J., has been named bementite, in his honor. There are collectors of china, of canes, of umbrellas, of archæological implements, of plants, of woods (Morris K. Jessup, for example), of Japanese sword guards, of carved ivories, of play bills, of hair clipped from noted heads, of the first copies of papers and magazines, of buttons, and the extreme has been reached by a man who has made a collection of cigar stumps, for which he refuses $10,000, though it is inconceivable that any sane man should have offered it.

This collection includes butts that have been cast away by General Grant, the Prince of Wales, and other celebrities. It is a wonder that this enthusiast did not try to bottle the smoke puffed from the lips of eloquence and command. Stranger things have been done, for in one of the European museums along with the chips from the true cross, is a bottle containing some of the darkness that fell upon Egypt.—[Society.

SIMPLY MARVELOUS!

SCARCELY eight months ago a medical discovery was placed upon the market bearing the title "THE GREAT SIERRA KIDNEY and LIVER CURE," and whose virtue was claimed to be the cure of kidney and liver complaints. ITS INTRODUCTION WAS THE SIGNAL FOR ONE OF THE GREATEST SUCCESSES ever achieved by a patent medicine on the Pacific Coast, as the afflicted quickly ascertained that it was far more efficacious and beneficial than had been claimed, as THE MOST WONDERFUL CURES WERE ACCOMPLISHED IN SUCH A BRIEF TIME as to seem MIRACULOUS. The testimony of hundreds who have been lifted from sickness and misery to health and happiness bears no uncertain sound, and they join in glowing testimonials of universal praise, hoping thereby to induce other unfortunates to drink of the font which restores that which is priceless—health. ONE TRIAL WILL CONVINCE THE MOST DESPAIRING THAT AT LAST A DISCOVERY HAS BEEN MADE which will restore a disorganized system and bring glowing health out of pale and sallow decline. THE RAYMOND, EAST PASADENA.
Among the Orange Groves of the beautiful San Gabriel Valley, eight miles from Los Angeles,
C. H. MERRILL, Manager (during the summer season manager of the Crawford House, White Mountains, N. H.)
If you cannot go out to The Raymond and spend a day, a week, a month, or the whole season, then go out and stay a few hours. It is well worth your while to see the magnificent view from its piazzas; and that view alone will well repay you, although there are many other interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are now under the charge of Mr. C. H. Hovey, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of Hovey's Nurseries, Cambridge, Mass. Tourists visiting Los Angeles should make a trip to The Raymond, even if their stay there must necessarily be brief. There are frequent trains between Los Angeles and The Raymond by several lines of railroad. The orchestra consists of four soloists, who render the choicest of music twice each day.
A very complete livery is connected with the hotel, and it is an excellent starting-point for a drive through the San Gabriel valley, in which are situated the San Gabriel Mission church, Rose's winery, Lucky Baldwin's stock farm, the Sierra Madre Villa, and many other places of interest.
Full particulars regarding board and other matters can be obtained by addressing C. H. Merrill, Manager of The Raymond, East Pasadena, California.

TO SETTLERS ON LANDS IN ANTELOPE VALLEY.

TO CERTAIN SETTLERS WHO ARE OCCUPYING or propose to occupy lands owned by me in Antelope Valley, I desire to say:

First—That these lands are on earned grants to the railroad, and the title is unquestionably good.

Second—That their time and labor will be wasted.

Third—That I shall immediately bring suit against any who have or may hereafter settle upon such lands.

Fourth—That United States patents will soon be issued for such lands to the railroad, and are only awaiting the order of business in the department.

Fifth—These lands will be placed on the market on June 1st of this year, giving those who choose a chance to acquire an undisputed title.

It is announced that a reduction of 25 cents per 1,000 feet will be made on gas, commencing March 1st.

The City Council will meet this morning at 10 o'clock, when several important measures are expected to be brought up.

A basket social will be given by La Esperanza Parlor No. 24, N. D. G. W., in the N. S. G. W. hall, on Spring street, tomorrow evening.

Residents on Broadway, formerly Fort street, request that the Council will order the new name of the street placed on the corner sign boards.

The track of the Second-street cable road, between Broadway and Spring, is not in a condition which encourages light vehicles to pass that way.

The Mayor's safe stood alone by itself in the corridor of the city hall yesterday. City Treasurer Johnson has not yet made up his mind to open his vault for its entrance.

The ordinances covering the sections in the charter preventing the contracting of debts by officers of the city without authorization, will be discussed by the Council today.

The new cable of the Broadway and Plaza division was placed in position on Friday night. An idea of the cost of running the cable railways may be gained from the fact that this is the third cable that has been used on this division, the two former being completely worn out before taken up.

Hermann Gottschalk Taken to San Francisco.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning Chief of Police Glass appeared before Judge Cheney, in Department 1 of the Superior Court, with Hermann Gottschalk, the Chicago drummer, who was arrested in response to a telegram from Chief Crowley of San Francisco. The Chief and his prisoner were accompanied by a dapper little man, who was Detective Coffey, of San Francisco. Immediately on learning of the drummer's arrest, he had been dispatched by Chief Crowley with the warrant charging Gottschalk with having obtained money under false pretenses, issued by Judge Rix. The train on which he came down was several hours late, but he reached the office of Chief Glass just as the latter was starting for Judge Cheney's court-room. He was agreeably surprised to find his man still in custody, as he had heard by telegram of the habeas corpus proceedings, and feared that owing to the delay to the train on which he traveled, he would be too late to prevent Gottschalk's release, and that he would have to hunt up the versatile commercial traveler. He turned his warrant over to Chief Glass, and the latter having produced the document in court, Judge Cheney denied the petition on the writ of habeas corpus. Coffey left for the North on the 1:30 o'clock train.

SANTA FE DIFFICULTIES.

No Very Definite Information About the Washouts.

The Atlantic and Pacific yesterday transferred its westbound trains at Albuquerque over to Deming to have them come to the Coast over the Southern Pacific line. Definite information could not be obtained with regard to the washouts which were reported yesterday along the line in Arizona. Later reports say that the damage done was very serious in the extent of territory which it covered, and that several days at least will be required to make repairs. S. B. Hynes, of the Santa Fe, announces in a bulletin that the overland train will leave on time for the East this morning at 10:15 and will run right through without transfer. Passengers from the north were transferred yesterday at Mohave to the Southern Pacific, but no arrangement of a similar sort has been made for today, from which it is evident that the Santa Fe authorities hope to find the road all right by tomorrow.

The landslide in the Cajon has been cleared away and a train got through there yesterday afternoon. The Southern California road is now all right and as soon as advices have been received that the Atlantic and Pacific washouts are repaired the Santa Fe will be out of trouble.

In Bad Company.

On Saturday morning last a youth named Preston was arrested by one of the police detectives and locked up for several hours in the city prison. It is stated that he became infatuated with a woman named Pearl Hinton, who is said to be one of the most notorious members of the demi-mondaine element in the city, and left his home and parents in order to devote himself to her. His arrest was made at the instance of his father.

Geo. A. Werner, the well known book engraver, of 531 California St., S. F., writes to the Edwin W. Joy Co., that his wife has been taking Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla for months for liver trouble and indigestion with splendid results. He says, "we have found it invaluable for keeping the system regulated. It divides the load with a dyspepsial stomach and replaces the distressing sense of fulness and oppression with a feeling of ease and relief. It is a perfect liver and bowel regulator. We have both been taking it for months. It is good to have handy."

DISEASES OF THE
Head, Throat, Lungs
Successfully treated by
M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D.
M. C. P. S. O.,
By His Hot Air Medicated Inhalations and his COMPOUND OXYGEN TREATMENT.

ASTHMA.

It is a common error to suppose every disease which is attended by oppressed breathing to be Asthma or Phthisic. We have shortness of breath in Consumption and Pneumonia, just as we do in Asthma, only that in these diseases it is always present, whereas in Asthma it occurs in paroxysms.

Asthma is a spasmodic disease of the lungs, which manifests itself in periodic attacks or "fits." It comes on suddenly and is attended with great difficulty of breathing while it lasts, but when the attack is over the patient breathes almost as well as in health.

Nervous, Humid and Dry Asthma are names given to different forms of this disease. Emphysema is an other and more inveterate kind of Asthma, while Hay Fever or Rose Cold is a peculiar variety of Asthma which occurs at a certain season of the year. Each of these forms of disease differs somewhat from the others in symptoms, but practically these distinctions are of very little value. It does not matter to the patient which form of Asthma he has, since his sufferings are the same in all. In one case the expectoration becomes yellow, and we call it bronchial. In another it is light and we call it dry. When he coughs up clear water, with a white froth on the surface, we say he has Humoral Asthma. In Nervous Asthma there is very little expectoration of any kind, Hay Fever always begins as a crying cold in the head or influenza, and a clear water runs from the nose and the eyes before the Asthma fit comes on. In Emphysema the expectoration is generally thick, and continues so in the interval between the fits, while the shortness of breath is increased on the slightest exertion.

It is a foolish conceit of many people to believe that if they have Asthma they cannot get Consumption. The truth is the very opposite. They are more liable to fall into Consumption because they have Asthma. Another idea is that Asthma itself is not a dangerous disease, and yet the published bills of mortality for this city prove to all who read them that great numbers lose their lives every year by this foul destroyer of our homes.

Without courage and perseverance nothing is curable. But with these aided by proper and skillful treatment, Asthma can be cured even after the lungs are extensively diseased.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance from business whatever. Every case of Asthma is curable. Eastern visitors and invalids will be wise in being cured before they return home.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for an examination, but if impossible to visit the office personally can write for list of questions and circular, both of which will be sent free of charge. Address
